Media Kit

Books, industrial hemp and independent perspectives.

About the platform

The Cannabis Testament is the home of books by Adelino Peterus Melo and a developing international media section. Its independent content explores the cannabis plant, industrial hemp, materials, research and publishing.

Who may find it relevant

Readers and organisations interested in books, publishing, industrial hemp, textiles, building materials, research and innovation. These are intended audiences, not verified visitor demographics.

In the media

Italian publication Canapalandia published an interview with Adelino Peterus Melo on 26 November 2026. Read the interview in Italian.

Audience and reporting

The media section is developing. Media-specific reach has not yet been established. Ask for the reporting period, source and definitions of any available figures. Analytics covers only visits for which measurement is enabled and permitted; it does not capture all visitors or activity on external bookstores.

Editorial independence

Commercial placements and sponsored articles are identified. Advertisers do not control independent editorial reviews. Enquiries, listings and proposed collaborations do not imply an endorsement or an existing partnership.
